

AFT Sponsored Professional Development Activities Spring 2019

The Climate Crisis and Our Responsibility As Educators: Never mind the polar bears . . . What about humanity? This workshop will cover the threat presented by the climate crisis and our moral obligation as educators to convey to students the urgency and severity of the problem along with solutions to empower students to contribute to a sustainable future. Come learn the science behind the key components to the current crisis and explore how this issue can be integrated into classrooms. Presented by: Judd Curran, Grossmont College Geography Professor and Jim Miller, City College English and Labor Studies Professor.
